SHERIDAN COUNTY, NEBRASKA

(It) lies in the northwestern part of the state bordering South Dakota. It has 8667 inhabitants. Rushville is the county seat and the government agency for the Pine Ridge Reservation which is found in Dakota. The county is a large one, covering 2466 quarter miles. There is a great difference in the lay of the land and also the crops.

The land in the northwest is mostly rolling and the hills are overgrown with trees. Other parts are moderately rolling and in smaller parts quite level. Other parts are unsettled as they are in the sand hills. Also it is sandy along the Niobrara River and in the valleys of the Rush River. Crops in the moderately rolling land are quite good. Although, you can find places that are salty or gravelly. Water levels are deep, 100 to 150 feet deep. Most shallow waters in the county are found along the valleys of the Box Butte River.

The Czech communities in the county are found in the north and northwest from Rushville and north of Hay Springs where the reservation of Fort Sheridan was located. Here the lay of the land is very rolling (hilly). The settlers are as a whole, do farming in the valleys, at times cut wood for sale. Around here my news of the birthplace of the settlers is very incomplete and in pieces, and to visit each one, is nearly impossible with a great loss of time. And so in many dwellings, their eyes must be closed to the hill traveler or he isn't seen until he rests on the ridge of the hill and then looks in a hurry to the road or where he could have walked from. Then in his sight emerges a live person, just like in a fairytale from a cursed castle. I haven't much taste for the distant deep valleys and hills and across lower elevation, again turning twisting hollows further and further! Smaller distances amount to several miles to walk to a house and not to find half at home, as they are either cutting wood or are in town so the trip is in vain.

Communities farther are toward Hay Springs and Rushville, they are found on land that is moderately gravelly, but the soil is better and productive. The third settlement is found near the Box Butte River that lies near the border of the county of the same name. On the whole, the social life for the countryman is scattered as they live so far apart.
